

Many years of testing have shown that ATHENA represents an ideal treatment for many skin problems, such as:

ACNE, SCARS, AGING, STRETCH MARKS,
SURGICAL SCARRING, HYPERPIGMENTATION.

Microdermabrasion, which involves the removal of the surface layer of the skin, without the use of chemical substances, with a mechanical action, takes place in two stages.

The microcrystals of corundum, contained in a transparent tank, are "projected" onto the skin through a special hand-help appliance, thus obtaining a preliminary smoothing effect.

At the same time, the microcrystals are suctioned off, using the same device, together with the dead cells, and transferred to a collection tank. This suction stimulates and oxygenates the skin, thus accelerating the regeneration process. After the treatment, any type of skin will appear lighter, firmer and softer.

This method is also particularly innovative since:

it is easy and safe to use

it is not invasive

it has no side effects

unlike other peeling techniques, it does not disrupt social activities

it guarantees visible results, right from the first application
